Shelter for Abused Women and Children

Dear Sir/Madam,

I am writing this letter of recommendation to provide a positive reference for Regina Robinson. I have known Regina for several years from working at Piedmont Technical College and I am aware of her work as an advocate for social change and she is a positive inspiration to those she interacts with regardless of their situation.

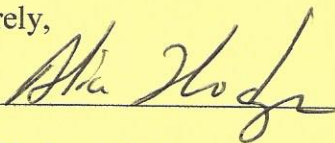

I have observed Regina's orator skills on several occasions. The first time was when I asked her to speak to students in a course I was teaching at Piedmont Technical College. There were several young women who were struggling with their self-esteem and I had heard Regina was a dynamic speaker who could engage an audience and provide positive affirmations that would enhance the self-esteem of those in the audience. She exceeded all my expectations and the students male and female loved her presentation as well as they gain knowledge about life in general and how to remain focused regardless of what obstacles are out there.

The second time I observed Regina was at a Vision Board program where I participated as a panelist. Regina shared her powerful testimony that was one of the highlights of that program. She inspired the entire group with her story of faith, love, and perseverance.

I would highly recommend Regina as a speaker, facilitator, motivational speaker, and mentor for anyone who needs to hear a story of inspiration and receive positive affirmations.

Please call if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Alice Hodges, PhD
